REAL ID Extended to May 7, 2025

The Department of Homeland Security extended the REAL ID deadline to May 7, 2025. The REAL ID Act established minimum security standards for state-issued driver's licenses and identification cards and prohibits Federal agencies from accepting for official purposes licenses and identification cards from states that do not meet these standards. Beginning May 7, 2025, every state and territory resident will need to present a REAL ID compliant license/ID, or another acceptable form of ID for boarding commercial aircraft, accessing Federal facilities and entering nuclear plants. The Transportation Security Administration (TSA) considers a current passport or military ID acceptable identification for boarding an aircraft. For more information on Kentucky's REAL ID compliant license, visit Drive.ky.gov.

From Where I Sit

Take advantage of AAA membership

Make it your New Year's resolution to save big in '24

By Terri Petrick
President, AAA East Central

The new year has arrived, giving us time to reset and reflect. Of course, I'm sure you've pledged a resolution or two. Maybe even some repeat resolutions from the past? We've all been there!

If you don't have any resolutions planned, I'll propose one. In 2024, don't let any of your AAA benefits go unused. After all, as the old saying goes, "Waste not, want not."

If you resolve to use your AAA membership to its fullest potential throughout the year, you will find yourself saving time and money. I'm not referring only to when you're stranded at the roadside. If you think about it, AAA is like several different companies acting as one to offer a multitude of services to its members. It is an insurance agency, travel agency, roadside assistance provider, discounts and rewards provider and more. All rolled into one!

Think about it this way. Thousands of vendors offer discounts to those bearing the AAA card, and members save an average of $170 each year. That's more than enough to cover the cost of your annual membership dues.

For example, did you know that AAA recently established a relationship with DIRECTV® to offer savings to our members? If you sign up by phone for a new account with the satellite television provider, you can get up to a $400 Visa Reward Card.

Or, if you're looking to save money at the pump, did you know members save through the AAA Fuel Rewards Program at participating Shell stations? You can save 30 cents per gallon on your first fill-up and then 5 cents every day after that.

AAA analysis underscores car seat safety

New analysis from AAA examined five years of crash data from the U.S. Department of Transportation and points to a lack of proper child-restraint use among children injured or killed in car crashes.

The results of this analysis, released by AAA and car seat leader Chicco USA, uncovered that nearly half (48%) of children ages 10 and younger who were injured and half (51%) who were killed in car crashes were using a vehicle seat belt prematurely or no restraint instead of a car seat.

Families spend a significant amount of time on the road and, from 2017-21, more than 3.9 million children ages 10 and younger were involved in crashes while riding in a vehicle, 527,000 were injured and 2,789 were killed.

Infant seats, boosters and seat belts will effectively protect young passengers when used properly. The U.S.

If your resolution is to take a dream vacation this year, a AAA Travel Advisor can be your most valuable resource. Personally, I will not be traveling anywhere without a AAA Travel Advisor watching my back.

I've heard too many stories of people who have reached their destinations only to find they were ill-prepared because they forgot to sign up for an international driver's permit, a travel credit card, or some other snag. The bottom line: if you're going to invest your hard-earned money into a vacation, you want to have a professional guide you through the process.

These are just a few of the ways you can save money all year as a AAA member. But even a single tow can prove your membership to be a good financial decision. If you call an independent tow company, you can be stuck with a bill that includes charges like hookup fees, per-mile fees, vehicle size fees ... Before you know it, one tow can amount to a couple-hundred dollars!

And if you know anyone who is curious about joining, we're running special offers in 2024. Information for new members can be found at AAA.com or by visiting a local AAA Branch Office.

Department of Transportation found that child restraints reduce fatalities by 71% for infants younger than 1 and by 54% for children 1 to 4 years old in passenger cars.

According to AAA's analysis, the most recent data from the DoT reflects a need for parents to ensure they are using the correct child-restraint system for each phase of growth. Chicco Child Passenger Safety Technician Josh Dilts offers the following advice for families:

Don't skip the booster phase – The data decreased by more than half in car seat use from age 7 to age 8, an age that saw significant injuries reported. Many parents must not know that seat belt fit is more about the child's height than age (many state laws focus on age only). Based on their size, children upwards of 10 years old may benefit from using a booster seat. Most booster seats accommodate children as tall as 57 inches.

Children should always use a restraint when riding in vehicles – Shifting from a car seat to a vehicle seat belt too early isn't the only issue. Nearly four in 10 children, ages 7-10, killed in a car crash, were completely unrestrained and, of the youngest children (ages newborn-3), nearly one in four who were killed were unrestrained. Chicco's Dilts notes that the use of restraints, which is defined by this dataset as not using a car seat, booster seat, seat belt or strapped into the vehicle in any manner, is alarming.
Use available resources – Chicco offers the most recent car seat guidelines, installation tutorials and caregiver FAQs on ChiccoUSA.com. Local fire departments often have a child passenger safety technician on hand who can check if your car seat is correctly installed. For more resources, visit AAA.com.

Don't assume other driver will stop after crash

What motorists should do if they're victims of a hit-and-run

By Robin Jones

You're driving on a busy highway when you notice a speeding car coming up quickly behind you. It's zigzagging between lanes, narrowly missing other cars. Before you can react, it catches up with you – and clips your car's rear end.

Momentarily stunned, you ask if your passengers are OK, and you start to pull to the side of the road. Then, you get a second shock: The perpetrator is racing away, clearly with no intention of stopping to exchange insurance information.

That's when you realize you're the victim of a hit-and-run driver. At this point, you know the normal post-crash procedures don't necessarily apply. But how can you make sure your insurance claim goes smoothly? Keep the following tips in mind:

DO pull over to a safe place and write down as much information about the other driver and the collision as you can remember. Some or all of the other driver's license plate would be great. But even the other car's make, model and color can help, along with the direction it was headed and any damage the car might have sustained.

DO take pictures of your car and the area in which the crash occurred if it is safe to do so. Time-stamped photos of the road and weather conditions, as well as traffic flow, can assist with your claim.

CAN'T STAY – A driver reacts after seeing the damage done to her vehicle after a hit-and-run accident. Image: pathdoc. Adobe Stock.

DO ask any witnesses to describe what they saw, and write down their testimony, names and contact information, so that your claims adjuster can contact them, if necessary.

DO call the police. If the damage is minor or no one is injured, the police might not come to the crash scene. However, your auto insurance policy might require you to notify the police of any hit-and-run accident. If that's the case, be sure to file a police report, whether at the scene, by phone or at the police station.

DO report the collision accurately when you call your insurer. Intentionally misrepresenting facts about an accident could lead to a suspicion of fraud. Insurance companies are able to easily recognize whether a vehicle came into contact with another vehicle and whether it was in motion when it sustained damage.

In many cases, either the victim, a witness or a surveillance camera can supply enough information for the police to find the fleeing driver. If a hit-and-run driver is caught, he or she could face these serious penalties: fines up to $10,000 and prison time, depending on the severity of the damage or injuries caused by the crash. Plus, the DMV could put points on the driver's license; the driver's insurer, if he or she has one, could cancel coverage; and anyone injured in the accident could sue.

DON'T play detective and chase the other car. You might be tempted to try to get the license-plate number for your claim, but that could result in unsafe driving and worsen the situation. Remember: As long as you have the appropriate coverage, your insurance company should assist in repairing your car.

Annual new vehicle costs rise above $12K

Record prices, 90% increase in finance rates drive numbers

The yearly cost to drive a motor vehicle continues to rise.

AAA's Your Driving Costs – a data source for expenses associated with owning and operating a new vehicle – finds that the average cost of owning and operating a new vehicle in 2023 increased significantly. The annual expense of $12,182 – or $1,015 monthly – is a sharp increase from 2022, when the average cost topped at $10,728 – $894 monthly.

"It's important for car buyers to clearly understand the costs associated with owning a new vehicle," said Greg Brannon, AAA's director of automotive research. "Due to global supply-chain issues and constrained inventory of new vehicles, car prices rose dramatically in 2022. And while the situation continues to improve, the spillover effects are keeping prices high."

The overall average manufacturer's suggested retail price (MSRP) of new vehicles in 2023 increased to $34,976 – an annual increase of $1,575 from the previous year. It's important to note that MSRP does not always correspond to a consumer's actual purchase price and might vary depending on demand. A higher sticker price directly impacted finance costs, with vehicles boasting an average annual finance of $1,253 – a 90% increase from the previous year.

MONEYPIT – The cost to own a new car in 2023 rose to above $12,000. Image: pavel_shishkin. Adobe Stock.

The change in the annual cost of owning a new vehicle also is likely driven by:

- Depreciation, which is the difference between the car's value upon purchase and the value of the car when sold. According to 2023's YDC projections, new vehicles are expected to depreciate by an average of $4,538 per year over five years of ownership – up 22% from 2022.
- The jump in new-vehicle prices compared to used-vehicle values that have experienced a decline in the past year.

- Automakers have focused on producing more oversized, luxurious and expensive vehicles loaded with extra features that increase prices even more.

Compared to 2022, fuel ranked among one of the higher annual-cost categories. The average cost per mile in 2023 decreased roughly 2 cents per mile. Meanwhile, the cost of charging EVs increased by nearly 2 cents per kWh from 2022. It went from 13.9 cents per kWh to 15.8 cents. The increase is likely accounted for by higher-than-expected inflation, according to the U.S. Energy Information Administration.

Given their size, fuel economy and prices, it should come as no surprise that half-ton pickups have the highest average driving costs among all vehicle categories covered in the YDC study. Pickup trucks excel at hauling and towing, although many buyers don't use them for these purposes. Potential buyers should be aware that the unique capabilities of pickups come at a high cost of more than $1 per mile.

The pickup market has slowed over the past 12 months, with gas prices trending higher and financial costs climbing.

"The once popular pickup truck is now seeing a slight decline in demand as these vehicles have become increasingly expensive, rivaling the price of many luxury cars," said Brannon. "As interest rates continue to climb, this adds a layer of expense per month that consumers should consider when shopping for their next vehicle."

Destin leading destination on panhandle

Northwest Florida beach town chock full of entertainment

It's not easy to get a grip on Florida's panhandle when planning a trip to the Sunshine State.

It often is overlooked – not by any fault of its own. Florida is synonymous with Walt Disney World™, Space Coast, the keys and a myriad of beaches located on its east and west coasts.

Let's face it, Florida is a vacationer's utopia, making it easy to understand how some locations might not get the love they deserve.

But the panhandle shouldn't be ignored. It's comprised of a number of beach towns, including Pensacola, Navarre and Panama City – all destinations worth a visit. But Destin might be the crowning jewel of Florida's little area that could.

Destin is located on the southwest part of the panhandle on Florida's Emerald Coast, a name that originates from its beautiful, clear green water. The beaches are softer than a country club's fairways, and the atmosphere will have you wondering why it took so long to find this wonderful beach town.

Crab Island is Destin's hallmark attraction. It's only accessible by boat and encompasses approximately four acres. There are plenty of activities, but visitors are recommended to relax, and enjoy the atmosphere and natural beauty.

food boats and floating restaurants. Snorkel, paddleboard, kayak or just sit back and watch the dolphins and other marine life dancing through the Gulf of Mexico.

Destin Commons is a shopping district. More than 90 businesses line the quaint brick roads, giving it a town-like ambiance. It has 500,000-square feet of retail stores, bars and restaurants. It provides a southern charm for a sun-bathing beach bum.

HarborWalk Village is a bustling hub of entertainment. Guests can take a cruise to dolphin watch, ride in a glass-bottomed boat, take a sunset cruise or board a pirate ship. Enjoy the freshest seafood on the panhandle after a day of wave-running, kayaking or snorkeling. Rise above the heavens while parasailing, ziplining and rock climbing. Book a helicopter ride to view Destin from new heights. It's enough to boost your adrenaline, while creating unforgettable experiences.

Soft, sugar-white sand awaits at nearby Henderson State Park, a one-mile beach that offers a stark contrast to the emerald-green water and brilliantly colored sunset. Dunes stretch as high as 30 feet in height.

Among nature parks in Destin, it's the last stretch of coastal-dune terrain and a prime spot for ecotourism. Sand pines, scrub oak and sea oats are scattered along the landscape. Wildlife includes rabbits and gopher tortoise on land; herons and sandpipers near shore; and dolphins and sea turtles in the gulf. Migrating monarch butterflies arrive during the fall. Hikers can follow a trail that peaks on a dune.

And don't forget about fishing. Destin is called the "World's Luckiest Fishing Village." Destin Fishing Fleet has more than 250 boats waiting to be chartered. It's one of the largest fleets in the U.S. Reserve a private-group charter or join a shared excursion. The experiences are customizable, choosing from four-hour trips to overnight adventures.

So get a grip on Florida's panhandle. It's destined to satisfy your wanderlust and leave you wondering what took you so long to discover it.

SERENITY NOW – AmaWaterways ship AmaSerena exceeds expectations in all categories. Image: AmaWaterways.

AmaWaterways ship sits at top of class

AmaSerena exceeds high standards on storied Rhine River

It's easy to equate massive ocean-liner ships with cruising. The Pacific, Atlantic and Caribbean quickly come to mind. Vessels are the size of cities and carry the population to match.

Cruising, however, represents an evolving market that is growing on smaller waterways. The interest in river cruising has increased significantly the past two decades. And it's not difficult to learn why.

Ships sail on many of the world's most historic rivers. They glide peacefully on the Rhine, Danube, Seine and Moselle, to name a few. They visit myriad countries that have more stories to tell than Shakespeare. Learn about medieval times. Experience new cultures and witness indelible sights that will burnish your mind, strengthen your soul and meet any expectation.

AmaWaterways, meanwhile, plays a leading role in river cruising's climb in popularity. Its 26 ships sail throughout Europe and parts of Africa and Asia.

Its vessels have few peers and share wonderful characteristics.

They're luxurious but not gaudy. Cozy but not crowded. Peaceful but not quiet. And relaxing but never boring.

AmaSerena sits among its finest ships. Its stylish design quickly grabs your attention. Doors slide open upon arrival. The marble floor and gold hand railings sparkle. A glass-encased elevator adds to the ambiance. It's an intimate setting that personifies AmaWaterway's commitment to providing the best amenities.

Built in 2015, the 443-foot-long vessel offers 81 staterooms that can accommodate 162 passengers. Spacious rooms provide comfortable living quarters. A balcony enhances the openness. Pour a glass of wine, have a seat and absorb the changing landscapes of the Rhine River while sailing from Switzerland to the Netherlands.

AmaSerena has multiple places in which to dine. Enjoy breakfast, lunch and dinner while seated in its elegant dining room. Tables and booths uniquely populate an expansive hall that keeps guests from feeling crowded. Windows offer spectacular views of the water.

Image: AmaWaterways.

Delectable aromas waft from a kitchen comprised of fine-dining chefs.

Reserve a seat to experience the Chef's Table feast in a dining area located on the third floor. The room's sprawling windows offer spectacular views. Sit, mingle with fellow cruisers and enjoy a seven-course meal paired with a variety of wines.

Guests also can enjoy bistro meals in the lounge – the ship's main gathering place. It's a hotspot – the cool place to be. Comfy sofas, tables and a bar envelop an area designed specifically to be the ship's entertainment hub.

A glass-encased elevator adds to the ambiance. It's an intimate setting that personifies AmaWaterway's commitment to providing the best amenities.

The river never has seemed more enticing to cruisers. More are learning that traveling small doesn't mean settling for less.

It exceeds expectations. Happy hour begins by early evening before dinner. This sacred time of day is highlighted by wine and a drink of the day. Libations flow and conversations spark. Comforting music strums from the hands of a piano player.

AmaSerena has a small library that serves as a sitting place. A workout facility allows guests to exercise, yoga classes are taught in the lounge each morning and spa services also are available.

A pool on the sundeck boasts a swim-up bar. Walk or jog on the outdoor track. Play chess on an oversized board topped by large pieces. Or have a seat and appreciate unrivaled scenery.

It's a remarkable lineup built on the shoulders of a remarkable staff. The ship's amiable captain converses with guests. His crew works diligently to keep the ship moving and docking safely and on schedule. The cruise and hotel managers are gems. Peerless greeters, chefs, servers, bartenders and housekeepers work congruently to guarantee guests have memorable trips for all the right reasons.

The Azores, or Açores (Portuguese for goshawks), are commonly referred to as "the Hawaii of Europe." Find soaring mountains and rich valleys, lakes resting in ancient craters, and lush vegetation as far as the eye can see. The islands' hot springs, fumaroles and thermal fountains all originated from volcanic activity, and you can see traces of this energy still active on the different islands. A signature Azorean dish – cozido das Furnas – utilizes the heat of the volcanic earth to stew meat and vegetables. The nine islands sit more than 900 miles west of Portugal's mainland, resulting in a unique culture separate from the rest of the country.

Tips From a AAA Travel Advisor: Ebonee Hiner

Utah’s Mighty Five live up to their billing
Natural wonders, adventure abound on this epic journey

I’m an outdoorsy type of person, so it’s no surprise that Utah and the state’s MIGHTY FIVE moved to first place on my travel list after my trip this past November. I’ve been a travel advisor for six years, and this adventure took my breath away!

AAA Travel Advisor:
Ebonee Hiner

As soon as we arrived in Salt Lake City, our 12-passenger van and driver guide took us to Antelope Island, 90 minutes from town. We visited the Great Salt Lake, the largest of its namesake, and saw bison roaming in their natural habitat. Later, we toured Salt Lake City, including the Utah Capitol building, and world-famous Mormon Tabernacle.

Day 2, we drove four hours to Canyonlands National Park in south-eastern Utah. It’s known for its dramatic desert landscape carved by the Colorado River. We saw Mesa Arch, one of the West’s most photographed landforms, and Grand Point View Trail – named because when you look over the cliff, the rocks look like a dead horse. Another notable area was the Needles, the remote Canyons of the Maze.

Day 3, we discovered the mighty

BREATHTAKING – The Mesa Arch offers a gateway to the beautiful Canyonlands.

Arches National Park, a red-rock wonderland of eroded sandstone. The landscape has contrasting colors, landforms and textures unlike any other, with 2,000 natural-stone arches, soaring pinnacles, massive rock fins and giant balanced rocks. I chose a six-mile, round-trip hike to Delicate Arch. It was steep and took about 90 minutes uphill. My travel tip is to get there early enough to see the sunrise.

Day 4, we drove by the Moab Petroglyphs from the Native American Anasazi tribe, towering 60-70 feet off the road. All of this on our way to Goblin Valley State Park, where we saw thousands of hoodoos, referred to locally as goblins, which are formations of mushroom-shaped rock pinnacles, some as tall as several yards.

We ended the day at Capitol Reef, so named by the early settlers who thought the domes on the rock formations looked like the Capitol building in D.C. I hiked the 1.2-mile trail to Hickman Natural Bridge – a 125-foot-tall formation that spans 133 feet! Our group indulged and spent the night at the Capitol Reef Resort, one of the Top 20 Resorts in Utah honored by Travel + Leisure in 2023. You can stay in a luxurious stand-alone cabin, relax in a teepee or go glamping in their Conestoga Wagon rooms onsite.

Day 5, we drove Highway 12 – a 123-mile scenic byway designated an All-American Road to Bryce Canyon – known for its crimson hoodoos or spire-shaped rocks. At Bryce, our tour guide gave us two options for a longer or shorter hike. I took the challenge and hiked two hours on the Queens Garden trail to the Navajo Trail loop, a 32-story hike, 7,000 feet in elevation.

Every day kept getting better and Day 6 was no exception. Zion National Park is distinguished by the canyon’s steep red cliffs. Some trails were closed due to falling rocks. Our tour guide told us which ones were open. Zion has a shuttle system, so you start at the visitors center and the shuttle goes to all eight trails. We did the Narrows on the last stop. Then after a one-hour hike, we got back on the shuttle to the next trail.

My travel tips are pack good hiking shoes that are already broken-in, layer your clothes. It was cold in the mornings, and warm in the afternoon. And have your camera ready. Everything is SO PHOTOGENIC! And it’s OK to do the easier hikes!

New Hampshire village a skier's utopia

Slopes, adventure and beauty describe North Conway

Skiing is synonymous with Colorado. The state boasts many of the finest slopes and resort towns in the U.S. Millions flock to the state annually for the opportunity to glide down its white-powered mountains.

It's an experience that should be on any skier's bucket list, but one doesn't need to travel across the country to find premier slopes. New Hampshire is hiding a small town that is waiting to be uncovered.

North Conway is home to fewer than 2,500 people and sits in the Mount Washington Valley on the east-central side of the state. It's more than a community. It's a village; a natural wonder comprised of close-knit residents, aged architecture and a chain of mountains.

North Conway is considered to be one of the best ski towns in the U.S. And who could question it?

There are 13 ski areas within a 30-minute drive of the village. Boasting the highest point in the Northeast – Mount Washington at 6,288 feet – North Conway serves as the backdrop to more than 700,000 acres of protected White Mountain Forest.

Norman Rockwell could not have painted a more fitting setting.

The town's lights sparkle through light snowflakes during the winter, giving it a snow-globe persona while assuring guests they couldn't have Conway. Choose from casual to fine dining, from seafood to barbecue, as well as their farm-to-table menus. Visit a pub or tavern for a toddy and sandwich. Dine aboard a dinner train, ride a chairlift for lunch on the summit or enjoy a themed international meal along with a presentation of the featured region.

North Conway is a year-round destination. Scenic attractions include Diana's Bath Waterfalls, Conway Scenic Railroad, Echo Lake State Park and the Kancamagus Scenic Highway. Alpine slides and ziplines are among the more popular activities in the warm months. The Nor'easter Mountain Coaster takes riders more than 1,400 feet high before dropping them nearly 3,000 feet down the hill.

Playhouses, art centers and museums offer prime entertainment, and a host of golf courses surround the community. Shops and boutiques add ambiance to the downtown district.

Sometimes, it takes a village to create the ideal destination. North Conway is that village.

Educate teenagers about identity theft

Becoming a victim can have serious consequences

Identity theft is one of the fastest growing crimes worldwide. Online pirates search diligently for easy targets and few are more vulnerable than teenagers.

Education and common sense are vital to keeping them out of trouble. The results could be devastating. Here are some situations of which to be aware:

Your teen and the internet – Social websites are as popular with identity thieves as they are with today's youth. Speak with your child about becoming friends only with people they know outside of cyberspace and why they should limit the personal details they share online. Advise them that they shouldn't share their date of birth, full name, address or school. Absence of this information will make it more difficult for criminals to piece together the necessary data to commit identity theft.

Your teen and credit card use – Allowing your teen to get a credit card or to become an authorized user on your credit card account enables him or her to begin building a credit history. It's also an important step in learning good credit habits. As you teach your teen about smart credit card use, be sure to also speak with them about protecting personal-financial details and the implications that identity theft can have on a person's credit report and score. Teach your teen to carefully review his or her credit card statements for suspicious transactions and advise your teen against leaving the card out in the open.

TAKE PRECAUTION – Parents should teach their teens to be aware of cyberthieves. They lurk on the web and are eager to steal identities, credit card numbers and much more. Image: diy13. Adobe Stock.

When your teen leaves for college – Living in a college dormitory can be a great student experience, and it will be an even better one if your teen takes steps to protect themselves from potential risks that surround them. From an identity theft perspective, there's usually no need for your teen to take their Social Security card or birth certificate to college. But if he or she must do so, recommend getting a safe-deposit box at a nearby bank and opt to receive bank statements electronically. And as obvious as it may sound, remind your teen to lock their dorm room whenever they leave, and to password-protect their computer and phone to minimize unauthorized access to personal information.

It might seem like a crime that happens only to others, but identity theft is on the rise and the implications of a damaged identity can be severe. Have a dialogue with your teen about identity theft and the simple steps he or she can take to protect their information and privacy.

For parents looking to give their teen extra security, AAA offers FREE identity monitoring to members 18-and-older with enrollment in ProtectMyID®, a product that provides identity-theft detection, protection and fraud-resolution assistance.

Cruise with style

night. It results in a richer and more fulfilling small-cruise experience.

Time is your best friend when traveling to new and exciting destinations. Another advantage is sailing on a smaller ship, perfectly sized to cruise across oceans and scenic waterways, and dock at off-the-beaten-path locations, as well as world-renowned ones.

Begin your trip in Denmark. Its capital, Copenhagen, is known as the “City of Spires.” Its medieval core is punctuated by the steeples of churches and towers of palaces.

Spend two days in Gdansk, Poland. It’s a port city on the Baltic more than 1,000 years in age. It teams with Gdynia and Sopot to create the fantastic metropolitan area of Trojmiasto – also known as the “Tricity.”

Day 2 in Gdansk allows you to explore the town. Choose an optional shore excursion to absorb all it has to offer. Perhaps a walking tour. Maybe a private-vehicle one. Or something in between. Lively older buildings mesh perfectly with newer architecture to create a day of wonderful sightseeing.

Explore the cobblestoned Old Town in Klaipeda, Lithuania. Its German heritage speaks to you through half-timbered architecture, beginning at Theatre Square

– a renowned location. Go cycling to the Dunes, join a walking tour to Juodkrante Village or, for those cold war history buffs, visit a Soviet nuclear-weapon site.

Riga is Latvia’s capital. It’s set on the Baltic Sea at the mouth of the River Daugava. A cultural center, it’s home to museums and concert halls. Wooden buildings, art nouveau and its medieval Old Town rank it among the most interesting of its kind in Europe.

A traveler’s paradise can be found in Estonia – Tallinn, to be exact. Little has changed in the capital city over numerous centuries. Its medieval influences can be recognized in its architecture and art. Visit St. Olav’s Church – once the tallest building in the world – before having a seat at a charming café in the town square, the heart of the city for 800 years.

Finland offers a trifecta of exploration and enjoyment. Visit three cities in three days and leave with a plethora of unforgettable times.

Kotka is tucked away on the world’s largest archipelago and delivers an exceptional island lifestyle. Kotka is blessed with architecturally stunning museums, award-winning parks and other attractions sure to grab your attention. Take an archipelago cruise, hike to Tsar’s fishing lodge or take part in a beer-tasting tour.

Helsinki – Finland’s capital city – blends traditional and modern architecture and design with nature and a few quirky touches that include a church built inside an enormous chunk of granite. A scenic drive reveals the rock-hewn Temppeliaukio Church, Sibelius Park and other iconic landmarks. Drive to the medieval town of Parvoo or stroll the many cobblestoned roads.

Mariehamn, meanwhile, is synonymous with scenic harbors, dense greenery, wooded houses and wide streets that make it the ideal place to explore by foot. Finnish, Russian and Swedish history intertwine to take you back centuries.

Your trip concludes in Stockholm, a cosmopolitan city that boasts modern Scandinavian architecture, trendy restaurants and fairytale palaces that are guarded by a Board of Beauty. Take a canal cruise. Chill out in the town’s Ice Bar in Old Town – a unique establishment constructed out of ice, including furniture and glasses. Visit the Nobel Museum, as well as a bevy of palaces, museums and unusual attractions.

Don’t hesitate to reserve your place on the President’s Cruise. It’s a sail you can’t ignore, and it certainly will change the way you see the world.

Experience Copenhagen

Take advantage of a two-night, prepackaged trip to Copenhagen for an exclusive day of touring the city and surroundings prior to embarking on your cruise.

2-night pre-cruise option (August 9-11)

$859/per person, double occupancy

Hotel: NH Collection Copenhagen

Day 1: Arrive in Copenhagen and transfer to your hotel in a prime location for a two-night stay. Enjoy a free afternoon in evening to explore this ancient city on your own. Copenhagen has a rich history as a major city on the edge of the Baltic. It grew from a little fishing town to the capital of Denmark. It has survived fire, plague, invasion and just about everything in between. Perhaps visit the world-famous Tivoli gardens, then enjoy dinner at one of the local restaurants.

Day 2: Breakfast is included at our hotel this morning. Today, we drive to Kronborg Castle, a UNESCO World Heritage site. Known as the setting of Shakespeare’s Hamlet, the castle is located in Elsinore with views across to Sweden facing the sound. Once the home of kings and queens, a fortified castle with bastions and cannon batteries that controlled the water in the narrowest point between Sweden and Denmark, the castle’s history is fascinating. We return to Copenhagen to enjoy an included lunch at the local Skipperkroen Restaurant. We then embark on a Classic Canal cruise. Hear how Copenhagen became the fantastic city it is today. Learn about the city’s founding father, the best place to get Danish Smørrebrød “butter bread,” a traditional open-faced sandwich in the cuisines of Denmark, and why the Danes are called the happiest people in the world. Our tour ends in Nyhavn, a 17th-century waterfront that is now an entertainment district. Here we enjoy some free time and we can walk back to our hotel.

Day 3: Copenhagen (Ship departs: 6 p.m. August 11). Enjoy a leisurely breakfast at the hotel. This afternoon, transfer to the Azamara Onward for the beginning of our Baltic Adventure.

Italy is work of art waiting to be admired

Style, splendor put it among world’s top destinations

Italy lights up our senses. It’s charming, romanticizing and stunning. Few places blend art, passion, food and sights better.

Italy feasts on our ambitions and turns them into reality. It meshes the sunny splendors of the “Bel Paese” (beautiful country) with architecture, culture and history. It’s unparalleled zest for good living includes an unbridled obsession for delectable dishes and fine wine.

Simply put, there are as many ways to experience Italy as there are coins in the Trevi Fountain.

Tuscany is a region blessed by brilliance of nature and man. Olive groves and vineyards meander up rolling green slopes. Hill towns emanate a special glow under the evening sun, setting on a quiet hillside.

Italian Renaissance flourishes in Florence. Piazza Signoria housed Michelangelo’s David for centuries. Today, it rests safely in the Accademia Gallery. Witness the towering belvedere from Piazza Signoria and Boboli Gardens. They offer sights that will soothe your senses and tell a story about one of the world’s most unique countries.

The treasures of the Medici and other masterpieces like Botticelli’s Birth of Venus and Leonardo da Vinci’s Adoration of the Magi sit in Uffizi Gallery, a museum in the Historic Centre of Florence.

The town of Sorrento sits atop some of the Mediterranean’s most breathtaking cliffs and crowns Italy’s Amalfi Coast – royalty among shorelines in the Old Country. Absorb the stunning panoramas. Salerno is home to the Path of Gods and is a three-hour trek along a trail overlooking the Amalfi Coast, offering a magnificent view over Conca dei Marini.

The Isle of Capri is a ferry ride across the Bay of Naples. A celebrated retreat since the Roman times, it’s famous for the Blue Grotto – a sea cave, where the sunlight imparts an otherworldly blue glow to the water. The villa of Swedish doctor Axel Munthe offers wonderful views of the Bay of Naples and Vesuvius.

Amalfi drips in beauty throughout every morsel, but no place better than Positano. Sun-bleached homes come in subtle shades of pink, peach and ochre. They rise like dominoes on steeply terraced streets.

Venice, meanwhile, is the Adriatic’s “Bride of the Sea.” Ride a vaporetto through canals to Byzantine Basilica, Doge’s Palace and St. Mark’s Square. Climb to St. Mark’s Campanile – a belltower of St. Mark’s Basilica – to spot the location where Galileo demonstrated his telescope in 1609. Lord Byron immortalized the “Bridge of Sighs” and connected the Doge’s prisons with the Inquisitor’s chambers. It’s believed that sighs of the condemned prisoners inspired the name.

And cliché intended: All roads lead to Rome. The Baths of Caracalla mark the beginning of the Appian Way that boasts monuments like the Circus of Maxentius. The Arch of Titus watches over the Forum and offers sweeping views of the ruins on Palatine Hill.

By April, parks and gardens are overflowing with flowers. Villa Borghese, once a cardinal’s private estate, is an oasis of formal gardens, lakes and winding pathways in the middle of the city.

Savor la dolce vita on the Via Veneto or linger over cappuccino in one of Piazza Navona’s outdoor cafés. Piazza de Spagna gives way to the Spanish Steps, perhaps the most romantic rendezvous in the world.

Italy’s attributes create a peerless masterpiece that is best experienced in person.
